

QUARTERLY NEWSLETTER

Ibrahim-Tanko Amidu - Executive Director of STAR-Ghana Foundation

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Partners.

I am happy to share with you our newsletter, following a hiatus of more than a year occasioned by the transition from the STAR-Ghana programme to the Foundation. A newsletter that enables us to provide timely information about the work of the organisation is critical to the achievement of our objectives and we expect to touch base with you every two months via the newsletter. The period under review has been exciting and provided so many stepping stones for the realisation of our objectives.

Active citizenship is at the heart of the Foundation's ethos, reflected in its Vision and Mission statements and its description of itself as a 'Centre for active citizenship and philanthropy. During the period under review, we launched our Active Citizenship strategy, to provide a framework to guide and support our work.

With support from the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and in partnership with the West Africa Civil Society Institute (WACSI), the Foundation has since 2021 been working with a number of partners to pilot innovative approaches to local resource mobilisation for inclusive development. We held learning meetings with our partners to harvest emerging lessons for wider dissemination. In the same vein, we started work during the period on the strengthening of the ecosystem for Social Enterprise in Ghana as a strategy for inclusive development and civil society sustainability.

We continued our work, with funding from FCDO, on facilitating inclusive access to quality social services, particularly health, education and social protection. The research papers we commissioned were disseminated and used as inputs for engagements with Parliament and other stakeholders.

Our Security, Stability and Development project in northern Ghana, funded by FCDO, ended during the period. The end-of-project conversations with stakeholders provided very useful lessons for wider conflict, security and development programming in northern Ghana in particular.

Details of these and other exciting activities undertaken during the period are provided in subsequent sections of the Newsletter and on our website (www.star-ghana.org). I hope you enjoy reading them. Do get in touch with us via Facebook, email (info@star-ghana.org) and our website with your comments, questions and other contributions.

Best wishes and greetings from the Secretariat

LESSONS FROM THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC: STAR-GHANA ORGANIZES NATIONAL FORUM ON SOCIAL PROTECTION

Weaknesses in Ghana's social protection system were exacerbated and exposed by the Covid-19 pandemic. SGF, under its Partnerships Beyond Aid (PBA) programme funded by FCDO, commissioned a study by the Centre for Social Policy Studies (CSPS) of the University of Ghana, Legon, to improve stakeholders' understanding of the current state of SP in Ghana and identify entry points for advocacy towards a strengthened Social Protection system. A one-day national dialogue was organised by SGF to discuss the CSPS research report and agree an action plan for coordinated advocacy by state and non-state actors. TOWARDS AN ENABLING ENVIRONMENT FOR SOCIAL ENTERPRISES IN GHANA – STAR-GHANA FACILITATES STAKEHOLDER CONVENINGS.

Civil Society Organizations in Ghana are pushing for a vibrant social enterprise sector with a robust policy and legal framework to promote an enabling environment. STAR-Ghana Foundation is leading actions and processes to promote a well-regulated and supported social enterprise sector able to unlock partnerships and capital for inclusive sustainable development. As the world moves towards the Sustainable Development Goals by 2030 and yet faced with unfavourable socio-economic, environment and health challenges, Civil Society must consequently develop innovative ways including domestic resources mobilization to address these constraints. STAR-Ghana Foundation's work in this sector has so far focused on convening dialogues to develop coordinated advocacy plans and supporting the work of a steering committee to lead the implementation of these advocacy actions. GIVING FOR CHANGE – STRENGTHENING CAPACITIES FOR LOCAL RESOURCES MOBILISATION THROUGH COMMUNITIES OF PRACTICE

The Giving for Change project, funded by the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs seeks to promote development by recognizing the importance of domestic resources in increasing local ownership, and strengthening communities' ability to claim entitlements. A key strategy of the project is the convening of Communities of Practice (CoPs) bringing together the project's partners, other CSOs involved in promoting and utilising local philanthropy to achieve inclusive and sustainable development. CIVIL SOCIETY TO REFLECT ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF RTI LAW IN GHANA

Despite the passage of the Right to Information Law in Ghana, administrative and bureaucratic bottlenecks coupled with the imposition of fees by public institutions and a seeming lack of awareness among the citizenry of the law and their rights to demand for information are among a host of challenges impeding access to public information and the effective implementation of the law. Again, the measures put in place by government to contain the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic has placed an additional layer of impediments to the ease with which individuals and civil society organizations are able to access information from public institutions to hold public office holders accountable.
